

The City
Eight-Day Week

Wednesday 10: O.K., we admit it...

Sara Vilkomerson
1,951 words
8 August 2005
New York Observer
22
English

(c) Copyright 2005 New York Observer. All rights reserved.

O.K., we admit it: Today might be one of those rare days when it's better to be in the Hamptons with all of the arrivistes and strivers and overpriced radishes (although not if Lizzie "Leadfoot" Grubman happens to be driving a big German car—yeeoww!). Because all that's happening in our fair city is ... National Underwear Day! Come on, people, what is this, Cincinnati? Can't somebody important get kidnapped or something? Anyway, Freshpair.com, which sponsors the event, says they believe "underwear deserves a lot more recognition than it gets." We feel woozy. We can't wait for National Q-Tip Day.