Quick Fixes

I need to hide my nipples without adding bulk!

I recently purchased one of the new nude-tone dresses for a spring wedding and when I modeled it for my husband, he joked that my “headlights” were on! I tried wearing the dress with a padded bra instead of my usual thinner ones to prevent the show-through, but I’m already large-busted – I don’t want to look even bigger. How can I get the coverage I need without the bulk?

I took this question to Susan Nethero, the CEO and founder of the bra-fitting specialty store Intimacy. Her top tip for full-busted women: Opt for a seamless bra with molded cups. The seamless design ensures the bra will look smooth beneath thin fabrics, while the rigid cups provide the lift, support and coverage you get from padded bras without the extra bulk. She recommends the Fantasie Smoothing Moulded Balcony Bra ($49, at www.freshpair.com or call 866-373-7472), which is available in sizes all the way up to a G cup.
