

Real Housewives of New Jersey (Really)

Thursday, September 18, 2008

How do you make Bravo's guilty pleasure Real Housewives series feel any guiltier? Film in New Jersey, of course. Here's a sneak peek of who's representing, from Urbanite

The ladies from the next installment of Bravo's "Real Housewives" series were out on the town Tuesday night at National Underwear Day's underwear/lingerie runway shows.

Though the four dolled-up gals wouldn't out-right admit they were the Jersey housewives, they implied they were, and a source confirmed it. Also, a film crew was following them. How un-obvious.

The four-some wouldn't say where in Jerz they live, but one housewife said she gets her hair done in Chatham, N.J., and frequents Italian restaurant Stretch's in Livingston ("The Sopranos" has filmed in Livingston a few times).

At Espace in midtown west, the ladies took in the underwear models and chatted up NYC housewife Alex and her hubby.