

Big Byrd sale coming to Clayton

By Lisa Townsel
Post-Dispatch Fashion Editor
08/05/2004

A day to celebrate undies

Wear clean underwear. You knew Mom's words would come back to haunt you. But you probably never thought undergarments would get a day of honor. National Underwear Day, deemed so by intimate apparel Web site Freshpair.com, plans to launch a celebration for the second year. The day will be Aug. 11. Again, 20 New York spokespeople for the site will traipse around the city in, well, almost nothing (except, of course, their underwear). The concept? We spend so much money on intimate wear we should bring these items into the light. Interested supporters can also participate in underwear preference surveys online and petition for an official undie day of recognition at www.freshpair.com. But hopefully, the parade of pride will be kept brief.

